

Buying a new home using a reverse mortgage

FACT SHEET

Home ownership in retirement – a smart alternative

Many retirees assume they must have the full purchase price in cash or rely on traditional loans to buy a home.

But a reverse mortgage offers another option—helping you own a home without the burden of ongoing repayments.

Whether you're looking to move closer to family, downsize to a more manageable home, or simply stop renting, a reverse mortgage can bridge the gap between your savings and the home you want.

How can a reverse mortgage help you buy a home?

Unlike a traditional mortgage, a reverse mortgage allows eligible homeowners aged 55 and over to access home equity without making regular repayments.

While most people use reverse mortgages to unlock the value in their current homes, they can also be used to buy a new home.

This means you can:

- Buy a home with a mix of savings and a reverse mortgage
- Avoid large upfront cash outlays
- Reduce or eliminate the need for a traditional home loan
- Own a home while keeping financial flexibility

Example: Let's say you're 70 years old, living in NSW, and currently renting. You have $800,000 in savings but want to purchase a $1,000,000 home. With stamp duty and additional costs estimated at $40,000, you're short by $240,000.

A reverse mortgage could provide the extra funds needed to complete the purchase. At your age, you may be eligible to borrow up to $300,000, covering the shortfall and allowing you to own the home—without the stress of monthly mortgage repayments.

Is this the right option for you?

A reverse mortgage for home buying could be ideal if you:

- Want to own a home in retirement but don't have the full purchase price in cash
- Prefer to avoid monthly mortgage repayments
- Want to use your savings for other retirement needs rather than tying it all into a home purchase
- Are over 55 and meet lender criteria

How reverse mortgages work

A reverse mortgage is a unique type of loan designed specifically for Australians aged 55 and above, enabling you to access the equity in your home without the need to sell or make regular repayments. The loan is typically repaid when you sell your home, move into aged care, or when the last surviving borrower passes away.

With a reverse mortgage:

- You retain ownership of your home. There are no monthly repayments required, meaning you can free up cash flow to cover living expenses, healthcare, and do more in your retirement.
- The amount you can borrow depends on your age, the value of your home, and how much equity you have. The older you are, the more you can borrow with borrowing capped at 55% by age 90.
- You can access funds in a way that suits you –either as a lump sum, a regular income, a line of credit, or a combination of these options.

Interest is added to the loan over time and compounds, meaning the total loan balance increases as time goes on. However, you are not required to make any repayments unless you choose to, and you can remain in your home for as long as you wish.

Protections for borrowers

Reverse mortgages in Australia are strictly regulated by the government to protect borrowers and ensure transparency. Some key protections include:

- No Negative Equity Guarantee (NNEG): This legal safeguard ensures that you can never owe more than the value of your home. Even if property prices fall, you or your estate will not be liable for any shortfall when the home is sold.
- Ownership rights: You retain full ownership of your home. The lender does not take over the property, and the title deed remains in your name. You are free to sell your home at any time and repay the loan without penalties (though settlement and mortgage discharge fees may apply).
- Clear terms and conditions: All reverse mortgages come with clear terms, including transparency around interest rates, fees, and potential risks, so you know exactly what you're agreeing to.

These protections are designed to ensure that reverse mortgages are a safe and viable option for older Australians looking to access their home equity.

Independent legal advice

Before taking out a reverse mortgage, it's essential to seek independent legal advice. This is a mandatory requirement for all reverse mortgage lenders, and helps ensure that you fully understand the terms and conditions of the loan.

A solicitor will review the loan agreement, explain how the reverse mortgage contract works, and discuss any potential implications, such as how it may affect your inheritance or future financial plans.

At Your Home Equity, we always encourage clients to take their time with this decision and to seek comprehensive legal and professional advice.

We believe in empowering our clients with the knowledge they need to make the best choice for their financial future.
