

Bridging finance with a reverse mortgage

FACT SHEET

What is bridging finance?

Bridging finance using a reverse mortgage allows homeowners to fund the transition from their current home to a new one without the stress of waiting for the sale of their existing property. This can be particularly helpful when downsizing, relocating, or preparing a home for sale.

Smooth the transition when downsizing

Downsizing often requires homeowners to spruce up their current property to attract potential buyers, which can be costly. A reverse mortgage can provide the necessary funds for repairs, marketing, and other expenses associated with selling your home, allowing for a more seamless transition.

Funding for your new home

Reverse mortgages can also provide the funds needed to secure your new property before your current home sells. This flexibility ensures that you can purchase a new home, cover costs like moving expenses and stamp duty, and move forward with confidence, even if your old home hasn't yet sold.

Example: A homeowner looking to downsize may need $50,000 to prepare their existing home for sale and to cover moving costs. A reverse mortgage allows them to cover these costs without financial strain.

How reverse mortgages work

A reverse mortgage is a unique type of loan designed specifically for Australians aged 55 and above, enabling you to access the equity in your home without the need to sell or make regular repayments. The loan is typically repaid when you sell your home, move into aged care, or when the last surviving borrower passes away.

With a reverse mortgage:

- You retain ownership of your home. There are no monthly repayments required, meaning you can free up cash flow to cover living expenses, healthcare, and do more in your retirement.
- The amount you can borrow depends on your age, the value of your home, and how much equity you have. The older you are, the more you can borrow with borrowing capped at 55% by age 90.
- You can access funds in a way that suits you – either as a lump sum, a regular income, a line of credit, or a combination of these options.

Interest is added to the loan over time and compounds, meaning the total loan balance increases as time goes on. However, you are not required to make any repayments unless you choose to, and you can remain in your home for as long as you wish.

Independent legal advice

Before taking out a reverse mortgage, it's essential to seek independent legal advice. This is a mandatory requirement for all reverse mortgage lenders, and helps ensure that you fully understand the terms and conditions of the loan.

A solicitor will review the loan agreement, explain how the reverse mortgage contract works, and discuss any potential implications, such as how it may affect your inheritance or future financial plans.

At Your Home Equity, we always encourage clients to take their time with this decision and to seek comprehensive legal and professional advice. We believe in empowering our clients with the knowledge they need to make the best choice for their financial future.

Protections for borrowers

Reverse mortgages in Australia are strictly regulated by the government to protect borrowers and ensure transparency. Some key protections include:

- No Negative Equity Guarantee (NNEG): This legal safeguard ensures that you can never owe more than the value of your home. Even if property prices fall, you or your estate will not be liable for any shortfall when the home is sold.
- Ownership rights: You retain full ownership of your home. The lender does not take over the property, and the title deed remains in your name. You are free to sell your home at any time and repay the loan without penalties (though settlement and mortgage discharge fees may apply).
- Clear terms and conditions: All reverse mortgages come with clear terms, including transparency around interest rates, fees, and potential risks, so you know exactly what you're agreeing to.

These protections are designed to ensure that reverse mortgages are a safe and viable option for older Australians looking to access their home equity.
